

LETTER RATINGS ARE GIVEN ONLY TO PAPERS THAT WILL NOT OR DO NOT FURNISH INFORMATION UPON WHICH AN EXACT AND DEFINITE RATING MAY BE BASED.

Circulation Ratings.

Those who consult this Directory for newspaper circulations should bear in mind that it does not purport to give the actual issue of the paper for the day the book is referred to, but the average issue of the paper in question for a whole year preceding by some weeks or months the date of publication of the book.

During the frequent revisions every publisher of a periodical has an opportunity to place on file in the Directory office a true statement of his actual issues during the preceding year. In preparing such a statement the publisher should take care

- 1st.—To set down separately the number of complete copies printed of each issue during the 12 months preceding the date of statement.
- 2d.—The sum of the several issues should be ascertained and be divided by the number of separate issues, thus showing the average issue.
- 3d.—The statement should be dated.
- 4th.—The statement should be signed by some person whose authority to give the information is either evident or stated.

Every publication, from which a correct and truthful, signed and dated yearly detailed circulation report was received, showing the average issue to have been as much as 1,000 copies, has a circulation rating in Arabic figures. These figures represent the number of copies printed, if not otherwise specified in this book. A rating by letter, as explained by the KEY below, is never given to a paper except in cases where the actual average issue has not been ascertained. In every case the rating by letter indicates that the paper will not or does not furnish information upon which an exact and definite rating may be based.

The circulation rating is generally omitted when a paper is less than one year old. Publications which do not insert advertisements in their columns are so indicated and given no circulation rating.

J K L rating indicates that the average issue of the paper is not supposed to exceed a thousand copies, which is the advertiser's unit of value.

An X rating indicates that a communication from the paper, in answer to an application for a revision or correction of the circulation rating accorded to it, created the impression that the paper will not be satisfied with any rating the editor of the Directory would be justified in according. A paper to which the "X" rating is applied is generally one that (in the opinion of the editor of the Directory) is likely to cost an advertiser more for a service it can render than would be required to obtain a similar benefit from some other publication.

A Y rating signifies that no recent circulation statement has been furnished from the office of the paper, and a consequent probability that the last circulation rating accorded to it may be higher than a new statement would warrant.

A Z rating indicates that a communication received, in answer to an application for revision or correction of the circulation rating accorded to the paper, fell short of being a satisfactory circulation report because of one or more of the shortcomings specified below:

1. It was not signed.
2. It was not dated.
3. It failed to convey the necessary information.
4. It was not given with sufficient attention to detail.
5. It did not specify the time supposed to be covered by the report.
6. It did not cover the issues for a full year.
7. It was signed with a hand stamp.
8. It was signed by some person whose authority to sign was not explained or known.
9. It was signed by an initial or by initials only.
10. It was not given in such a way as would make it possible to hold any one responsible for the information it purported to give, should it afterwards be proven untrue.
11. It failed to strike an average for the period covered in detail, and thereby made it impossible to quote any figures as having been shown by the publisher of the paper.
12. It failed to clearly state what was meant by the word "circulation."

The Z rating is most largely applied to newspapers whose publishers are better at issuing circulation claims in round figures than in sustaining their claims by facts and records.

The Z rating is never applied until after the attention of the publisher has been directed to the insufficiency of the report he has furnished and full information given how the fault might be remedied. For additional signs, etc., see next page.

NOTE—* Four asterisks indicate that a reward of $100 was once paid for the discovery of an untruthful rating of this paper which had been accorded upon the publisher's detailed statement duly signed and dated.

SIGNS FOLLOWING CIRCULATION FIGURES.

(aaa) These circulation figures are from a report of an examination made by the ASSOCIATION OF AMERICAN ADVERTISERS.

(⊙⊙) Advertisers value this paper more for the class and quality of its circulation than for the mere number of copies printed. Among the old chemists gold was symbolically represented by the sign ⊙.—Webster's Dictionary.

(??) This sign is applied in cases where a publisher expresses himself dissatisfied with the rating accorded, but unwilling to convey information that will warrant a higher rating.

(± ±) These ± plus and minus signs indicate that distinctly separate circulation statements made by this paper at different times, but covering the same period, fail to agree. This is doubtless a circumstance going to show that there exists, at the office of the publication, a failure to appreciate the value of exactness in information conveyed for the purpose of influencing advertisers.

(!!) The general advertiser ought to make himself well acquainted with the merits of this publication before contracting with it for advertising space.

(++) This publication is "a kicker"—unfriendly to the objects of the Newspaper Directory and gives little information.

(÷ ÷) This publication admits that a correct circulation report would show lower figures than those credited in the last report.

(△ △) No recent information or late copy of this publication has been received at the office of the Directory, and it may have ceased publication altogether.

The accuracy of this rating has been questioned by one or more persons who claim to have facilities for knowing the facts.

The accuracy of this rating has been questioned by one or more persons who claim to have facilities for knowing the facts, and it is feared that the doubts expressed do rest upon a substantial foundation.

The editor of the American Newspaper Directory has offered to verify the correctness of a circulation statement furnished by this paper, provided the publisher of the paper would agree to place the necessary facilities at his disposal. It was stipulated that the verification should be without cost to the publisher of the paper, but to this offer the publisher's response was not such as to entirely remove the impression of doubt that had been cast on the accuracy of the statement furnished.

The Editor of the American Newspaper Directory will consider it a favor to be informed whenever the name of a paper that has ceased publication is found to retain a place in the catalogue. To eliminate promptly all the dead papers is one of the most difficult problems with which he has to deal.

PREFACE

This edition of the American Newspaper Directory is the second semi-annual issue of its thirty-fourth year of publication under the control and supervision of its founder, Mr. George P. Rowell.

The experience of years has made it clear that the papers of the country are divided into three separate classes as to the sort of information they give in regard to their output or sales.

In the first class are those who tell their circulation definitely, honestly and with absolute or considerable regularity.

These have circulation ratings in Arabic figures.

In the second class are those who tell something about their circulation occasionally or generally, but commonly fail to be definite, and when the fault is pointed out neglect to remedy it.

The reason for this reticence is commonly that an exact and definite circulation is not deemed by the publisher of the paper a thing to be desired.

The papers of this class have circulation ratings by letters and particularly the letter "Z," which will be found most largely applied to papers whose publishers are better at issuing circulation claims in round figures than they are at sustaining their claims by facts and records.

It should be borne in mind that the letter rating is never given to papers that will furnish information upon which a definite rating, in Arabic figures, may be based, and that the "Z" rating is not applied until the attention of the publisher has been directed to the insufficiency of the report he has furnished and given full information how the fault might be remedied.

In the third class are those publishers who rarely convey any information upon which a circulation rating may be based.

In most cases of this sort the publisher is of the opinion that his circulation is nobody's business but his own.

Such papers are necessarily rated by letter.

The ratings of papers of this class are generally qualified by the letter "y."

The three separate classes are found from year to year to blend or run into each other to some extent, on account of changes of management.

The advertiser who looks carefully at the circulation ratings in this book, noting in each case how they have varied during the past ten years, will have no difficulty in deciding in which class a paper belongs.

THE AMERICAN NEWSPAPER DIRECTORY.

RULES AND USAGES THAT PREVAIL IN THE PERIODICAL REVISIONS OF THE WORK.

Publishers and others who consider the plan of revision faulty are invited to send suggestions showing wherein they believe it may be improved.

Such suggestions always have careful consideration. They should be addressed to the Editor of the American Newspaper Directory, 10 Spruce St., New York.

For thirty-four years the American Newspaper Directory has been continuously issued and has been the one authentic and trustworthy authority concerning the circulation of American newspapers.

The American Newspaper Directory consists of five parts.

Part I. contains a complete catalogue of all American periodical publications.

Part II. consists of a list of all papers rated in Part I. as having a circulation of 1,000 copies or more.

Part III. consists of a complete list of papers issued on Sunday.

Part IV. consists of a complete catalogue of Class and Trade papers.

Part V. consists of advertisements arranged alphabetically by States and towns.

The subscription price of the Directory is $5.

As soon as one edition of the Directory is issued a revision is begun upon the edition to follow.

For each revision a communication is sent to every known paper submitting the description of the paper as it appeared in the latest Directory, and requesting the publisher to furnish any correction that may be necessary for a correct description.

It is a publisher's privilege to have the circulation rating of his paper brought up to date in each issue of the Directory if he will file with the editor a detailed statement of circulation covering the entire twelve months preceding.

Each letter or report from a newspaper is read and every change noted.

Correspondence coming too late for attention is put aside for consideration during the next revision.

"New Newspapers" heard of since the revision of the last edition are sent for, and if late copies are obtained the papers are properly described in the Directory catalogue for the following issue.

"Publisher's Announcements," which follow the description of a paper in the catalogue portion of the book, are put in type as they are received, and inserted in the body of the book as the pages are made up. Under this heading the publisher of a newspaper is allowed to make any statement he deems important at a cost to him of one dollar a line of six words, cash to accompany the order.

The Directory is intended to contain a complete catalogue of all newspapers published, and neither the name nor the circulation rating of a paper can be omitted in response to a request to that effect.

Unless there are strong reasons to the contrary, the name of a publication that is not admitted to the United States mails as second-class matter is not entered in the Directory, and under the same restrictions, any publication admitted as second-class matter is considered entitled to have a place in the Directory.

It is not intended that publications of ephemeral character, such as are not periodicals in fact, shall have a place in the Directory. If in doubt whether a publication shall be included or excluded, it is always excluded.

In cases where a paper is dated from two places it is catalogued under the town where it is actually issued, but may be described as "dated also at" (naming the other city or town).

When one or more editions of a newspaper are issued for another town or village, in the catalogue the words "prints an edition for" (naming town), or "prints special editions for neighboring towns," are added to its description, and the circulation rating in such cases is specified as "combined circulation." No other mention of the extra "editions" is made.

At the beginning of each year an examination of the office files is made for a copy of each paper appearing in the Directory concerning which no late report has been received. To such as are not found a wrapper for a sample copy is mailed in a "special request" envelope, and the return of this envelope by the postmaster is treated as proof of the discontinuation of the paper, and causes its description to be withheld from the forthcoming Directory.

When the name of a paper appears in the Directory catalogue for the first time no circulation rating is intended to be accorded unless the paper is the successor of another paper previously described. If its printed volume and number dates from a predecessor a rating may be given, but not if it begins with Vol. I., No. 1.

Publications that do not admit advertisements in their columns are so indicated and have no circulation rating.

OF CIRCULATION RATINGS.

Commencing with the issue for 1897, there was given in the Directory a summary of the Directory ratings accorded during the preceding five years to papers supposed to print as many as a thousand copies. This has been supplemented by adding the circulation rating for each year, thus giving a comprehensive record of a paper's past as well as its present circulation.

The classification or rating of a circulation in the Directory by letter is determined by what is believed to have been the regular issue of the publication for a whole year preceding.

The actual circulation average for the year past is always stated in plain figures if the necessary information is furnished upon which the figures may be based.

To report his circulation in such a way as to convey information to an inquirer it is deemed necessary that a publisher shall state what the output has been for every issue for an entire year.

Advertisers think that they can judge more intelligently from knowledge of what a circulation has been for a year past than from any sort of a statement of what a publisher believes it will be for a year to come.

A circulation statement is required to be signed. If signed with a hand stamp, or with only initials, or by some person whose authority to sign is not made known, the statement cannot be accepted as one the accuracy of which may be absolutely relied upon.

A report giving the number of quires or reams used each week (instead of the actual number of copies printed) is not sufficiently definite. It may mean for an eight-page paper one-half the actual issue reported in quires. If it has four pages there are 24 copies to the quire. If eight pages, it will not be safe to allow for more than twelve copies to the quire. A quire is 24 sheets, and not 25. A ream is 480 sheets, and not 500.

When the report or description of a paper that has been forwarded to a publisher for revision comes back bearing a mark of acquiescence, or bearing no mark whatever, its return is taken as evidence that the publisher has no corrections to make.

If a publisher returns a report without any remarks about his circulation rating, it is taken as an admission that the rating at present accorded him is high enough, whatever else may be said about it.

When a publisher furnishes a true statement showing the actual number of copies for each and every issue for the preceding year — the aggregate number — and takes pains to show the average each issue by a calculation based on the actual figures exhibited, the statement being dated and properly signed, the paper is rated accordingly.

When a publisher is unable to give the actual figures for each issue of his paper for a year past, but claims a higher rating than has been given in the Directory, if his assertion covers a period of an entire year, and is authenticated by date and signature, it secures a rating according to the facts stated in his report; provided he plainly states that no edition during the past year was less than (a specified number of) complete and perfect copies.

When a publisher states what has been his average circulation for the past year, without giving the exact figures of each issue, his report fails to entitle him to the rating he appears to claim, because the editor of the Directory ought to see the figures by which the result was arrived at, so that he may know that the calculation was made with accuracy. No publisher can tell what his average circulation has been without first having caused the figures to be set down and the necessary calculations made; and when that has been done, he may just as well send the figures for examination, and to be placed on file at the office of the Directory. A mistake may have been made which a glance would reveal.

When the word "circulation" is used without definition or qualification in a circulation statement received from a paper, it fails to inform the editor of the Directory whether it means the number of copies printed or it is intended as an estimate of the number of readers, figuring five or some other number for each copy. What the Directory editor wants to know is the actual number of complete and perfect copies printed for the period of a full year. Spoiled copies and waste are not to be included in the count.

Daily papers having a Sunday issue are accorded a separate circulation rating for the Sunday edition whenever separate statements are furnished, one for the week-day issues alone and one for the Sunday edition.

When a morning and an evening edition of a daily are published, even though the evening edition has a different name, the circulation report is permitted to cover both editions, and is so stated in the book, provided advertisements ordered in one edition of the paper appear also in the other without extra charge.

In cases where, for a considerable time, no information is received from a publisher concerning the circulation of his paper, it is the rule to occasionally reduce the rating, unless information from outside sources forces the impression that the present circulation rating is not too high.

In a town where one paper gives information about its circulation that is definite and satisfactory, and another gives information the accuracy of which no one would be justified in guaranteeing in the form in which it is given, a great deal of consideration is given to statements about the circulation of rival publications made by the publisher who has furnished definite and satisfactory information about his own paper, and very little to statements about the circulation of his rivals made by the publisher who fails to make a satisfactory statement about his own.

Publishers who refrain from furnishing any information about circulation, or who furnish information in a form that is not specific and authentic, are rated by capital letters, the meaning of which is made known by the key. These ratings represent the opinion of the editor of the Directory at the time of going to press.

KEY—TO LETTER RATINGS.

Letter ratings are given only to papers that will not or do not furnish information upon which an exact and definite rating may be based.

J K L rating indicates that the average issue of the paper is not supposed to exceed a thousand copies, which is the advertiser's unit of value. To "J K L" papers that are shown by correspondence received to have claimed an issue of more than 1,000 copies, it is the practice at the time of each revision to send a copy of the regular application for information.

The publisher is thus given an opportunity to exhibit his right to a higher circulation rating if he cares to do so.

An X rating indicates that a communication from the paper, in answer to an application for a revision or correction of the circulation rating accorded to it, created the impression that the paper will not be satisfied with any rating the editor of the Directory would be justified in according. A paper to which the "X" rating is applied is generally one that (in the opinion of the editor of the Directory) is likely to cost an advertiser more for a service it can render than would be required to obtain a similar benefit from some other publication.

A Y rating signifies that no recent circulation statement has been furnished from the office of the paper, and a consequent probability that the last circulation rating accorded to it may be higher than a new statement would warrant.

A Z rating indicates that a communication received, in answer to an application for revision or correction of the circulation rating accorded to the paper, fell short of being a satisfactory circulation report because of one or more of the shortcomings specified below:

1. It was not signed.
2. It was not dated.
3. It failed to convey the necessary information.
4. It was not given with sufficient attention to detail.
5. It did not specify the time supposed to be covered by the report.
6. It did not cover the issues of a full year.
7. It was signed with a hand stamp.
8. It was signed by some person whose authority to sign was not explained or known.
9. It was signed by an initial or by initials only.
10. It was not given in such a way as would make it possible to hold any one responsible for the information it purported to give, should it afterwards be proven untrue.
11. It failed to strike an average for the period covered in detail, and thereby made it impossible to quote any figures as having been shown by the publisher of the paper.
12. It failed to clearly state what was meant by the word "circulation."

The Z rating is never applied until after the attention of the publisher has been directed to the insufficiency of the report he has furnished and given full information how the fault might be remedied.

The Z rating is most largely applied to newspapers whose publishers are better at issuing circulation claims in round figures than in sustaining their claims by facts and records.

SIGNS FOLLOWING CIRCULATION FIGURES.

(aaa) These circulation figures are from a report of an examination made by the ASSOCIATION OF AMERICAN ADVERTISERS.

(◎◎) Advertisers value this paper more for the class and quality of its circulation than for the mere number of copies printed. Among the old chemists gold was symbolically represented by the sign ◎.—Webster's Dictionary.

(??) This sign is mainly applied in cases where a publisher expresses himself as dissatisfied with the rating accorded, but unwilling to convey information that will warrant a higher rating. A complimentary copy of the American Newspaper Directory will be presented to the first person who will prove that a publication to which this sign is attached is entitled to a higher circulation rating than is accorded.

(±±) These ± plus and minus signs indicate that distinctly separate circulation statements made by this paper at different times, but covering the same period, fail to agree.

(!!) The general advertiser ought to make himself well acquainted with the merits of this publication before contracting with it for advertising space.

(††) This publication is "a kicker"—unfriendly to the objects of the Newspaper Directory and gives little information.

(÷÷) This publication admits that a correct circulation report would show lower figures than those credited in the last report.

(△△) No recent copy of this publication has been seen at the office of the Directory and it may have ceased publication altogether.

The accuracy of this rating has been questioned by one or more persons who claim to have facilities for knowing the facts.

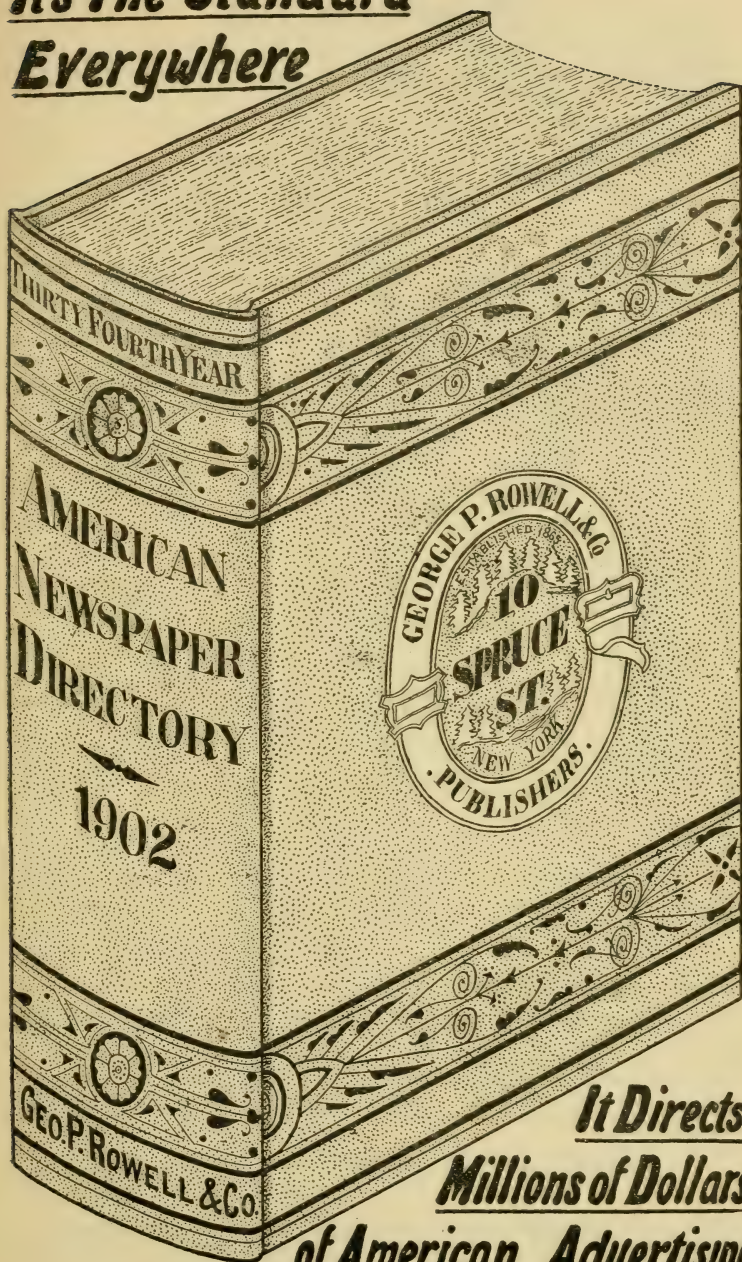

The accuracy of this rating has been questioned by one or more persons who claim to have facilities for knowing the facts, and it is feared that the doubts expressed do rest upon a substantial foundation.

The editor of the American Newspaper Directory has offered to verify the correctness of a circulation statement furnished by this paper, provided the publisher of the paper would agree to place the necessary facilities at his disposal. It was stipulated that the verification should be without cost to the publisher of the paper, but to this offer the publisher's response was not such as to remove the impression of doubt that had been cast on the accuracy of the statement furnished.

* Four asterisks indicate that a reward of $100 was once paid for the discovery of an untruthful rating of this paper which had been accorded upon the publisher's detailed statement duly signed and dated.

Whenever the marks #, ##, ###, and other marks of doubt (±±) (!!), appear against the circulation rating of a paper, the circulation rating of the paper so marked is not given in the list in Part II. of the Directory, or in other tabulations, but in place of the rating the doubt mark only is given.

THE American Newspaper Directory

ISSUED SEMI-ANNUALLY.

ESTABLISHED 1869.

This work is the source of information on Newspaper Statistics in the United States and Canada.

Advertisers, Advertising Agents, Editors, Politicians and the Departments of the Government rely upon its statements as the recognized authority.

It gives a brief description of each place in which newspapers are published, population, railroads, local industries, name and location of county, etc., etc.

It gives the names of all Newspapers and other Periodicals.

It gives the Politics, Religion, Class, Nationality, etc.

It gives the Frequency of Issue.

It gives the Editor's name.

It gives the Publisher's name.

It gives the Size of the Paper.

It gives the Subscription Price.

It gives the Date of Establishment.

It gives the Circulation—present, as well as for a series of years past, thus enabling an advertiser to determine the probable future.

It gives a separate list of all papers rated in the body of the book with a circulation of over one thousand.

It gives a separate list of all newspapers having a Sunday issue

It gives a list of all Class Publications (Religious, Agricultural, Medical, Trade, in Foreign Languages, etc.), and a complete index to each class.

It contains maps of each State, showing towns in which there are newspapers with more than 1,000 circulation.

It also contains other valuable tabulations and classifications.

The price of the AMERICAN NEWSPAPER DIRECTORY is Five Dollars—net cash, all transportation charges prepaid.

As the most important portion of the information supplied by a mercantile agency consists of a report of the financial strength of the person about whom information is asked, so is the circulation of a newspaper generally considered the point upon which information will be of most value to the advertiser. The greatest possible care is taken to make the DIRECTORY reports correct. Every publisher is applied to systematically. All information is taken in a form which excludes any but definite statements; while every effort is made to protect honest publishers against such as would resort to disingenuous reports to gain an unfair advantage.

EXPLANATIONS.

Population figures followed by a dagger (†) are from the United States Census of 1900. Population figures not followed by a dagger have been obtained from reliable local authorities.

These geographical indicators point out the position of every county in each State and Territory, whether center , north , northeast , east , southeast , south , southwest , west , or northwest .

A right for their perpetual use in the American Newspaper Directory was obtained by purchase from the late Dr. J. M. Toner, of Washington, by whom they were designed and copyrighted.

Publisher's announcement.—Arizona now contains 130,000 people, and the permanent population is growing at the rate of 5,000 a year. Arizona's soil and climate make it possible to produce every crop known to agriculture and horticulture, and her mineral wealth cannot be estimated by figures. Her people have money. They buy everything that civilized people use, and spend a half million dollars annually on their vacations at the coast resorts. They all read the ARIZONA REPUBLICAN. It is the only metropolitan newspaper that reaches them on the day of publication. It is printed on a perfecting press, operates a battery of linotypes and owns the exclusive morning Associated Press franchise. It has more circulation than all the other Arizona newspapers combined and reaches every one of the 235 postoffices in the Treasure Territory. It is the one newspaper covering the vast region between the Colorado boundary and Southern California. Write for sample copies.

Publisher's announcement.—The Fort Smith News Record is the leading daily paper in Western Arkansas, and has a far larger circulation than any daily in the State, outside of Little Rock. An evening paper, with a Sunday morning issue, it prints two editions a day. Its fast mail edition reaches over forty of the leading towns in Western Arkansas and Indian Territory, most of them the same evening of publication, as there are seven different mail trains leaving the city between 4.15 and 6.10 p. m. The News Record is progressive, newsy, unafraid. The first paper in the State to install linotypes, printed on a Hoe perfecting press, housed in a handsome building of its own, it has a model small city daily equipment. Its advertising rates are reasonable, and advertisers find it a profitable medium of publicity.

Publisher's announcement.—The SIGNS OF THE TIMES, a sixteen-page, illustrated, family journal, published weekly—52 times a year. Price $1.50 per year. Largest circulation of any religious paper west of Chicago (24,000 weekly). It opposes evil of every kind, upholds Christianity, stands for individual rights and liberty of conscience, teaches temperance in all things and discusses many highly interesting subjects from a strictly Biblical standpoint. To its advertising columns are admitted notices of things only of sterling worth. No medicine, liquor, tobacco, fake, fiction, "free" or any objectionable advertisement of whatever nature will be accepted.

Publisher's announcement.—The San Francisco CHRONICLE enjoys the distinction of being the admittedly reliable paper of the Pacific Coast. Other papers may print the news but the people look to the CHRONICLE for complete assurance. The CHRONICLE has gained this position by adhering strictly to the policy of carefully abstaining from misrepresentation and exaggeration. It spares no pains or expense to secure the latest intelligence, and presents it in an orderly fashion which commends it to its readers. The CHRONICLE is a clearly edited paper, and covers the whole field of news with thoroughness unmatched by any other journal in the country.

Publisher's announcement.—Advertisers in the MINING AND SCIENTIFIC PRESS know that their announcements are weekly seen by the men throughout this continent who are thoroughly representative of the mining industry of the country. The readers of this paper have bought mining machinery and supplies to the extent of over $150,000,000 in the last ten years; their annual purchases now exceed $18,000,000. Its advertising pages are referred to everywhere by intending purchasers of mining machinery or supplies as a directory for that purpose. The paper refuses questionable advertising.

SUNNY CALIFORNIA, with a population of over 30,000 Swedish-speaking people, has only

ONE SWEDISH NEWSPAPER. It is a clean, 8-page paper, full of local news, and is the recognized medium of all the Swedish Societies in California and along the Pacific Coast. It has been established 15 years.

"VESTKUSTEN" (the West Coast) has a large circulation along the Coast, in California, as well as in Oregon, Washington and British Columbia, and has a field entirely its own. The only Swedish paper on the Coast owning a type-setting machine.

FOR ADVERTISERS who want to reach the constantly growing and prosperous population of Scandinavians on the Pacific Coast, now numbering about 100,000, and constituting a thrifty, consuming class of people, there is no better medium than VESTKUSTEN. Rates reasonable. Address Publisher's announcement.—What advertisers say: "Notwithstanding we have only been running our ad in your valuable paper about two months, we are pleased to state that out of 322 orders received 284 names were added to our list of shareholders from seeing our ad in the RECORD. The results have been so satisfactory we have decided to increase our space from three inches double column to five inches double column."—C. E. Snider, Sec'y Copper Basin Gold and C. M. Co., Prescott, Ariz. Mr. Snider had used for several months previous ten other publications, but the RECORD in so short a time beat them all.

"Our results in dollars and cents from our ad in the RECORD exceed all other advertising mediums which we have patronized fully 100 per cent. It is what it professes to be—a clean journal, reliable and authentic, full of fresh news pertaining to the mining industry."—Miller-Young Brokerage Co., Charles N. Miller, Cripple Creek, Col.

Publisher's announcement.—The New Haven Union furnishes a circulation statement for 1901, showing a bona fide paid circulation averaging 15,296 copies daily, or a greater paid circulation than all the other New Haven papers combined. Our rate per thousand for circulation is less than any other paper in the State, and the results, as proven by the statement of large advertisers, much more profitable. Ours is the only penny paper in New Haven that reaches the masses, who do the bulk of the buying. You will make no mistake by including the New Haven Union in your advertising list every time you wish to cover that section.

Publisher's announcement.—John Wanamaker, the greatest of all big store advertisers, uses the MORNING NEWS of Wilmington, and no other paper in Delaware, for his full-page advertisement. Daily for one year, 1901. Renewed for one year January 1, 1902. No other paper will have it. No other paper is wanted. Being right on the spot, does the nestor of "big store" advertising know which is the best paper? Or is he only advertising for fun?

Publisher's announcement.—The great fire which swept over Jacksonville, Fla., during the early part of 1901, destroyed the entire building, plant and books of the METROPOLIS, and we were therefore not in a position to render a detailed statement of our yearly circulation—the circulation books having been destroyed with the balance. The publishers, however, positively state that the smallest edition printed during the year was 5,650 and the largest 8,500. The average for the year is considerably in excess of 6,400 copies each issue.

Perhaps it would be policy to say that the American Newspaper Directory is second only to the Lord & Thomas Directory. As a matter of plain truth, however, there's only one. The American Newspaper Directory is the Webster's Dictionary of advertising. As for its integrity, I don't believe that any fair-minded man ever questions Mr. Rowell's motives, be he publisher or advertiser, and I have absolutely no sympathy whatever with the howl that is raised against his efforts to put circulation upon an honest, open basis.—Daniel M. Lord, of the Lord & Thomas Advertising Agency, Chicago, July 21, 1902.

AT the convention of the Association of American Advertisers, held on January 29 and 30, 1902, at Delmonico's, New York City, the following resolution was passed unanimously:

It is the sense of this convention that the labor expended and the statistics obtained by the publishers of the American Newspaper Directory, during the thirty-four years of its existence, have been invaluable to advertisers. Although their definition of circulation is the number of copies printed, and not the more exhaustive and satisfactory definition recognized by this convention, which requires a knowledge of the net paid circulation and its distribution, still it is believed that this Directory more than any other has kept before advertisers the fact that a correct knowledge of circulation is essential to the successful advertiser.

Always Climbing!

With THE PEORIA STAR there is no such thing as falling back or standing still. It just keeps on growing.

THE PEORIA STAR

has no rival between Chicago and St. Louis — between Indianapolis and Kansas City. In all of Central Illinois, the richest farming, mining and manufacturing section of the Mississippi Valley, it is the only paper having a circulation reaching ten thousand copies daily — and THE STAR has 24,000. Every day a sworn statement is made — no secrecy, no concealment, no exaggeration. The press-room is always available, the books and the printed subscription lists always to be seen. Carries twice as much advertising as any other paper printed in Illinois outside of Chicago.

Read the following statement, sworn to daily, and see how THE STAR grows:

Publisher's announcement.—THE LATEST News is probably the highest ideal of the "country weekly" published in the United States. More than 2,000 copies of it are circulated every week in contiguous parts of the three counties of Jo Daviess, Stephenson and Lafayette. Called the "garden spot" of the world. More than 100 local correspondents in their different towns help to make its 12 bright pages brimming with local news. It is high class in every particular. Every line of its 72 columns is carefully edited.

The Coffeyville Journal

Daily and Weekly.

The WEEKLY JOURNAL has a paid-up list of 1,500, the largest circulation in the county. No complimentary or deadheads are carried on our lists, and when a subscription expires the paper is stopped until renewed. We find this method of doing business a great benefit to publishers and advertisers, and believe it is highly satisfactory to subscribers, as our list is steadily growing.

THE DAILY JOURNAL, established in 1893, has a circulation of more than 650 each day. Advertisers or others interested are at liberty to investigate our subscription lists at any time they may desire, and it will be a pleasure to us for them to do so. Address
